

Did you know that 17.6 billion pound of plastic in the ocean wright now? Most people think the plastic in the ocean won't affect the world when really fish and marine mammals are going extinct because of over fishing and pollution. Now for example if a primary consumer goes extinct like sharks or whales go extinct or endangered. the food chain break and the world changes for ever. Now if we start cleaning the ocean maybe we can start to fix the ocean little by little.

Now many companies have been trying to clean up the ocean but there is too much trash in the ocean for them to do it them self. so, the ask to please recycle it really help the earth. we have a day for the earth but some people take the earth as the advantages so the try to kill by polluting or even over fishing and pouching. now we all have this thing called recycle and its where you put sorted items there so that they don't get dumped anywhere they sometime turn it to more water bottles even clothes.

Many people would think that pollution is fake I understand why but its already to mush if don't start now who knows how long it would take to fix it. Now if it gets worst, it will affect every single one of use in different way. Those ways are flooding, hurricanes, heat, and many more ways if pollution gets worst then it is now. Ok so let's get into how state will be affected Florida will be gone because of flooding the cost of America will be gone because of its sea level island like the Bahamas Hawaii and allot more Australia will be on fire again and it will be too late to fix it.

Now let's say if we start now our future will be better and the skies will be clear and oceans will be clean. and the food chain will be better than ever and we will enjoy our time on earth. so please there are many ways to help little things can make a big change. so, let's start now before it's too late.
